INVITATION LETTER

Following our tradition, for the 5th year, being aware of the social benefits of caring for the safety of the community, the International Police Association - Regional Club Split and the Split-Dalmatia Police Administration are organizing a thematic conference "Security of the historic cities", at the Salona Palace Hotel in Solin, Croatia, 20-21 October 2022.

With the organizers from the ranks of IPA Split and the Police Administration of Split-Dalmatia, our traditional conference, fifth in a row, is designed as a gathering of practitioners specialized for prevention of unacceptable behaviors in the cities and local communities. This year the Croatian Association of Historic Towns, University Department of Forensic Sciences - University of Split and the Split-Dalmatia County Tourist Board, organizationally supports the conference.

During our previous conferences, from the presentations of the lecturers at this conference since 2017, we have had an opportunity to realize the importance of an interdisciplinary approach to the topic of local community security, to learn something about different approaches to organization and coordination in a specific environments and to blend traditional and modern approach to thinking about community safety.

Synergy of citizens, associations, local governments and institutions at the local level in the realization of safety, as a key determinant of environmental quality assessment, is the central theme of this year's gathering.

Based on the repercussions of this professional gathering, the conference was added to the list of the events supported by the Split-Dalmatia County, the cities of Split and Solin and the municipality of Klis.

Based on previous experiences and interests for the conference we can claim that contribution and support is expected and confirmed by participation of representatives of numerous cities and municipalities, security experts, tourism professionals, scientists from the fields of history, archeology, forensics, marketing experts and all those who participate management of public everyday life in the communities, municipalities and cities.

The conference has been envisaged as an opportunity to establish new, functional connections between the practitioners, to help in sharing of the good practices, to enhance knowledge and skills of the practitioners working in different and specific environments of each local community.

Emphasizing the location and the possibilities that the conference venue provides for organizing and promoting of this kind of conferences, the management of the Salona Palace Hotel has formed a special price offer for the participants of the conference in the period of October 19-23, 2022, encouraging the guests of the conferences on extended stay in Solin and Split-Dalmatia County.
